

Erika Tyker – Director of Client Services

There's online communications. And there's offline communications. Right where the two meet, you'll find Erika, leading the way in providing our clients with tactical know-how and strategic counsel.

Over the years, Erika has been a key player on the San Diego agency scene, guiding web development projects and communications for the likes of SANYO, Sempra Energy, Pardee Homes, Centex, and K. Hovnanian. Before joining Red Door, Erika served as Vice President of Client Services at AVENCOM and prior to that she headed up the development arm of the La Jolla Group. In addition to her invaluable experience in Internet project management, Erika brings with her an in-depth knowledge of the Building industry and enterprise caliber work for companies like Boeing and Sony.

Erika graduated with distinction in Applied Arts and Sciences from San Diego State University.
